

Group discussions

Organisms either small, simple or big, complex possess enormous genetic information that marked up the features and provide functions to every organism activity. Explain how this information are kept and maintain in cells.